Are you interested in learning the next steps in the lawsuits against Stop and Frisk? Do you want to learn how the community can get involved with Stop and Frisk Reforms?

Please join Public Advocate Letitia James for a critical community event towards meaningful and lasting stop-and-frisk reforms, in the wake of recent developments in stop-and-frisk class action lawsuits (Floyd v. the City of New York, Ligon v. City of New York, and Davis v. City of New York). This event will serve as an opportunity to envision a way forward for the Joint Remedial Process ordered by the federal court in Floyd that will bring long overdue reforms to the stop and frisk practices of the NYPD.

FEATURING:

- New York City Public Advocate Letitia James
- U.S. Department of Justice Civil Rights Division Representative (invited)
- Professor Sam Walker, Professor Emeritus, University of Nebraska at Omaha
- Iris Roley with the Black United Front of Cincinnati
- Professor Michelle Adams, Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law
- Professor Ekow Yankaw, Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law
- Adilka Pimentel, Make the Road New York
- Djibril Toure, Malcolm X Grassroots Movement

In addition, attorneys from the class action stop-and-frisk lawsuits will join the question and answer session to discuss the status of the lawsuits.
